Bids Called For On Highway Unit To Redwood City

Bids For Bayshore Road Asked For Jan. 8th

Bids for work on the portion of the Bayshore highway from San Mateo to Redwood City will be called for to be opened on January 8. This unit will consist of 7.4 miles of highway, and will bring the new road to a point on the northern side of Redwood creek. Plans for bridging the creek are also ready and the bridge, which will bring the road into Redwood City proper, will be ready for use by the time that the road is completed.

The highway commission in calling for bids for this work is carrying out the promise made to residents of the peninsula, that work would be rushed on this unit as soon as a decision was rendered by the railroad commission in regard to the Southern Pacific's "orphan spur" at San Mateo. This decision was rendered last week, and by it the Southern Pacific was ordered to pay half of the cost of a grade separation to carry the spur track over the right of way of the highway as well as over the proposed peninsula line of the Western Pacific railroad.

As soon as bids can be let for the actual work of building the road will be rushed to completion.

Merchants Hold Christmas Party In Spite of Rain

Bank of Italy Given First Prize for Decoration

In spite of threatening weather Wednesday evening, Redwood City's Christmas party proved a delightful and successful affair. The rain held off during the main portions of the event and everything went off as scheduled. Santa Claus arrived as promised, and much to the joy of the waiting throng of children, and in spite of a drizzling rain which dampened the latter part of the eveinng, the carol singers went about town discoursing music of the type which has been identified with the Christmastide since carols first were made.

Dressed in the customs of a century or more ago the carolers presented a pretty sight as they went from shop to shop in small groups singing and playing on horns. There were five groups made up of pupils from Otis M. Carrington's music classes at the high school and directed by him. The groups were as follows:

1. Joe Paron, Edna Walker, Margaret Feldscher, Arline Stewart, Helen Maninat, Dorothy Towle, Eugene Russell and Alfred Albertson.

2. James Esneault, Margaret Anthony, Nahldene Abbott, Leila Swett, Rosalie Carrington, Martha Cummings, Karl Frahm and Fred King.

3. Joseph Judge, Catherine Johnston, Jessie Pescaro, Charlie Taylor, Lorraine Bullivant, Burnet Kniverton, Charles Anthony and Bruce Graham.

4. Lillian Walker, Lillian Dunckel, Alice Webber, Lucile Moore, Eleanor Nelson, Nadine Wood, Katherine DeLacy and Virginia Parsons.

5. Helene Smith, Virginia Eldridge, Claire Reagen, Jacqueline Brown, Grace Parkin, May Whitsell, May Lee and Mary Alice Brown.

The decision to hold the Christmas party Wednesday evening, in spite of the threatening weather was made Wednesday morning by the directors of the chamber of commerce when it appeared that the rain might continue for several days. The event was scheduled for the evening before, but was postponed from that evening because of the rain.

Just before the celebration a committee consisting of Howard Trueblood, art instructor of the Redwood City schools, and Miss Marion Hosmer and Miss Bertha Mittell, both of the Sequoia Union High School, judged the store windows. The first prize, a silver cup, awarded by the chamber of commerce for the best decorated institution, was awarded to the Bank of Italy. H. B. Gardiner received first honorable mention, and Murphy's Men Shop, second honorable mention, and the Towne Motor Co., third.

The various groups of carol singers were judged by a committee consisting of Mrs. J. A. Hardin, Chas. G. Lambert, B. E. Myers and Al Sparks This committee selected group "A", as the winner of the carol singing contest This was the group listed as group 1.

The Christmas party was arranged by a committee consisting of James P. Hearne, chairman, Mrs. F. M. Perkins, E. T. Harrison, Kendall Towne, L. C Brown, Bob Murphy, Phillip Owen, Mr. Doxsee. Assisting the committee were Carl Wagner and E. B. Hinman, president and secretary of the chamber of commerce, and the following members of last year's Christmas committee: Bert Werder, Earl Rush, Mrs. Edward Gould, John Robb and Mrs. Albert Meyers.

McCarthy's hearing was before Judge Edward I. McAuliffe, sitting for Mansfield. McCarthy was arrested by San Carlos police, following a collision with a car of Milton Blackburn, Burlingame bank official.

A warrant was issued from San Jose Vednesday, as McCarthy is reported to be under probation after conviction on a hit and run charge n that city.

C. G. Lambert Talks Before Exchangites

A talk entitled "May Value In Exchange" was given at the regular weekly meeting of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening by Charles G. Lambert. The talk was based on a talk, "My Value in Kiwanis" given by Lambert in the international speaking contest conducted by the Kiwanis International this year, and in which the speaker represented the Redwood City Club. The chairman of Tuesday evening's meeting was Sydney Moore , one of the proprietors of the Nipa Hut on the highway.

New Operetta By Carrington Staged Here

"In Quest of Santa Claus" Proves Popular

A little operetta, "In Quest of Santa Claus," was staged last evening in the auditorium of the McKinley school by pupils of the Washington school. This operetta is one of the first operettas written by Otis M. Carrington, musical director of the Sequoia Union High School, and well-known composer of school operettas, suitable for children of elementary grades. Most of the local composer's works have been written for production by high school students.

The present production of "In Quest of Santa Claus" was the first ever given, as the operetta was just completed last summer. It is a fanciful little production calculated to interest grown-ups and children as well. It was staged Wednesday afternoon for the pupils of the McKinley school and again Thursday morning for the pupils of other Redwood City schools. Last evening's production was for the general public.

The cast of the operetta contained more than a hundred children. The leading roles were taken by the following: Jane Eula Bickerstaff and Mary Helen Daily; Santa Claus, Fritz Kuffer; the Wangaloo, Jack Keller; the Madonna, Margaret Zechman; Spirit of Love, Margaret Meredith and Mary Marquez; Helpfulness, Doris Welliver; Goodwill, Antonia Triano; Kindness, Dorothy Olquiza; Usefulness, Lucille Beauman; Captain of Tin Soldiers, Mike Balacco. In addition to there were choruses of rabbits, brownies, dolls, sunbeams and snowflakes.

Industrial Committee To Aid Western Road

The Peninsula Industrial Conference will employ an engineer to formulate a report in support of the Western Pacific's application for a road along the peninsula. This decision was arrived at at a meeting held in the Burlingame city hall Tuesday evening, The meeting was presided over by John J. McGrath. The decision to employ an engineer was made by a committee appointed by the conference to assist the Western Pacific in securing its franchise. This committee made a report of its progress Tuesday evening.

The scope of the conference was enlarged when the by-laws were revised so that any organization in San Francisco or San Mateo counties may become included in its membership if interested in the industrial development of the peninsula.

Junior Class Planning Dance

By Wawona Washburn

Sequoia's first entertainment of the new year will be a street dance given by the junior class, Saturday night, January 11, in the new girls' gymnasium.

"Last year," stated Miss Grace Cochran, junior adviser, "the class of '31 made more on its dance than anyone except the S. G. S., and we hope to repeat that this year."

In selecting the type of dance, the advisers and committee chairmen decided that a street dance would would be unique, as there has never before been a street dance at Sequoia.

Lamp posts ,electric signs, and colored lights will be used to create a street-like appearance in the gymnasium. Volley ball strandards will be transferred into light posts, and decorations will be entirely street-like.

Governor Urges Care IN Christmas Driving

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12—(UP)—Governor Young today issued a plea to California motorists to exercise extreme care during the holiday shopping period and help to reduce the annual death toll from automobiles striking package-laden pedestrians.

Said the governor:

"We are approaching a season of happiness, peace, and good will—a season when we lay aside our cares and devote much of our thought to the exchange of gifts in token of our affection for each other.

"Our streets are filled with people busily engaged in the task of Christmas shopping, often oblivious to traffic conditions surrounding them Under such conditions, mishaps at intersections are likely to occur unless the motorist is constantly on the alert.

"While the responsibility is not all with the motorist, it is better that he make allowances for pedestrians, possibly loaded down with packages, or intent on the hunt for suitable gifts. Records of accidents compiled by the state show that pedestrian accidents are always high in December.

"I urge every person driving a motorvehicle to use extreme care during this period, lest the spirit of holiday be turned into one of tragedy. I urge the co-operation of all municipal traffic authorities in averting such accidents."

Two Jailed On Housebreaking Charges in S. F.

Men Wanted by Local Police On Two Charges

San Francisco police are holding two men charged with burglary of two homes in this city. The men are William Sepulveda of this city, and Richard Rivera of San Francisco. They were picked up by San Francisco police through pictures and identifications sent from this city.

The two men are charged with having entered and burglarized two houses, the home of R. L. Spencer, manager of the local Safeway Store on Lincoln avenue; and that of Bert Smith, wire chief of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., on Poplar avenue.

In addition to the two charges of burglary, Sepulveda also faces a charge of issuing several bad checks here. He was sentenced from this county to Folsom several years ago on a statutory offense and was released about four months ago. He served a former term for the same offense committed in Santa Clara county.

Both men are being held by San Francisco authorities, who are examining their records in San Francisco before turning them over to authorities here for prosecution. If no reasons are found for prosecution in San Francisco, they will be brought here for trial. In the event that Sepulveda is convicted of the present charge he will face a life term in prison under California's habitual criminal law, which makes the third conviction a life term.

Kiwanians Enjoy Address on Japan

An illustrated talk on "Japan, Old and New," was given by Mr. K. Nakashima of the Counsul General's office of Japan, located in San Francisco before the Redwood City Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sequoia Wednesday. The talk was to have been given by Torao Kawasaki, the Japanese Consul General, but the latter is in Riverside attending a conference and Mr. Nakashima was substituted in his place.

The address and the steriоptican views of the "Cherry Blossom Land" were most interesting and were greatly enjoyed by the club men. Henry Witte was chairman of the day. A number of the members of the local Japanese Growers' Association were guests at the luncheon. Beautiful bouquets of chrysanthmums presented by the association, were at each table for the luncheon.

A group of eight carol singers from the Sequoia high school, under the direction of Prof. Otis M. Carrington, entertained the club members and their guests with carol singing during the luncheon. The group consisted of Misses Martha Cumming, Margaret Anthony, Madeline Abbott, Leila Swett and Lorraine Bullivant and Joseph Perrin, Gene Russell and Fred King. Sheriff "Jim" McGrath, who is a member of the Burlingame-San Mateo Kiwanis Club, also entertained with several of his numerous songs.

Each member will have a boy as his guest at the party. The committee in charge of the affair consists of C. M. Doxsee, Z. T. Thorning and Harry Glebman.

A dance will be given tomorrow evening in the War Memorial hall by the building committee of the veterans' organizations. Music will be furnished by O'Connor's orchestra.

:: Credit ::

A wit once wrote that even if some man did build a better mousetrap; even if the world did hear of it and beat a path to his door, plenty of mice would still live to a ripe old age if he refused to sell it on credit.

For it is a fact that no man—no business man—will or ever would give a second thought to doing business on a credit basis with people who want credit and who are people of honor and sound judgment. People of honor whose legitimate debts are paid, and of sound judgment who do not contract unwise debts.

It is for that class which does not want to pay the price of credit that the cash stores of today are created.

So we find that credit is a boomerang. Eighty per cent of the business all over the country which figure is no doubt comparably sound here in Redwood City is done on credit. If credit were not available, much less would be done. But if credit were sounder, much more would be done.

For example, we probably could not buy automobiles if we could not buy them on credit (for the present prices). What per cent of present users would accumulate enough to pay cash? And yet the cost of financing cars is higher than it need be, we are told, because finance companies are forced to repposses cars daily because of poor credit accounts.

On another page of this issue appears a message from our business and professional men. Some sell for cash and some for credit. But all the world over, you'll find it's true if you ask them, that it's getting the cash, and giving the credit that keeps them worried. Credit has built up many a large retail business and yet kep it from ever becoming prosperous. Credit brings the buyer to the store first, our storekeeper tells us, but turns him away when he has unwisely built up an account too difficult for him to pay.

The Thrift Commandments are well worthy of study. This is not a message asking for the payment of bills. It is a logical explanation of a point we all know but that some of us occasionally forget. In the long run no one can prosper at the expense of others. And one of the best forms of working for our own benefit is to spend our money wisely, geting as much for it as possible. And one form of doing that is to keep credit conditions in Redwood City as strong as possible.

Credit Is A Boomerang

If we keep our credit better with our merchant, he can keep it better with his jobber. His jobber can do the same; all can buy for less; all can sell for less; all can be more prosperous; and we can get more for our money. So the circle continues and prosperity grows.

Opposes Stages On Bayshore

The granting of a permit for stage lines on the Bayshore road is being opposed by a resident of Burlingame, Charles S. Elms, who addressed a letter to the railroad commission opposing the granting of the permit. A copy of the letter was sent to the directors of the Burlingame chamber of commerce, urging the directors to oppose the granting of the permit. The matter was taken under advisement by the directors.

Applications have been made by three lines: the Bay Shore Auto Company; the Pacific Auto Stages; and the Peninsula Rapid Transit Company. Elms charges that allowing auto stages on the new road would be a source of annoyance and would congest traffic. He advocates that the name of the road be changed to Bayshore Concourse.

The monthly card party at the Veterans' hospital at Menlo Park, sponsored by the Women's Relief Corps of this city, will be held next Thursday evening, December 19. All who enjoy playing cards are invited. Mrs. Mary Winter is in charge of the arrangements for the event.

Gallagher Sees Early Start On Coastside Road

Action To Be Taken Toward Speedy Decision

Supervisor Andrew J. Gallagher of San Francisco is confident that work can be started on the Oceanshore road from San Francisco to Santa Cruz by the first of March next year. This assurance was given by Gallagher in an address before the members of the Coastside Civic Union held in Halfmoon Bay Monday evening. Gallagher, who is a member of the joint highway district No. 9, formed to construct the road along the right of way of the abandoned Ocean Shore Railroad, told coastside residents of the legal proceedings being taken to expidite the work of construction.

Proceedings on the sale of bonds by this district are being held up pending a decision on a similar district in Ventura county. In order to hury procedings in this matter attorneys of the district here will mandate the San Mateo county auditor E. M. Stack, for $20,000, this county's share of the cost of constructing the Pedro mountain unit, Gallagher announced.

By reason of the mandate, it is expected that the state supreme court will rush a decision in the Ventura county case—that it will no doubt be rendered within six months.

In the meantime, San Francisco will raise $100,000 immediately, Gallagher stated, and, together with the two sums from San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties, approximately $100,000 will be available.

It is proposed that work on the Pedro mountain grade be started not later than March 1. A passable dirt road will first be built around the mountain. All bridges, culverts, etc., will have to wait, as they will have to be constructed according to state specifications, Gallagher pointed out.

The completed permanent road over the mountain will cost approximately $640,000. The cost of the entire project, a boulevard of modern construction, including the elimination of steep grades between San Francisco and Santa Cruz, will cost about $5,500,000.

Supervisors Thomas M. Hickey of township No. 1 and Manuel Francis of township No. 4 pledged their cooperation when the temporary grade is completed. They promised to keep the extensions of the proposed road into their districts in good condition for traffic.

Sequoia Graduate Dies at Portola

Rolling Keithe Farmer, member of the graduating class of the Sequoia Union High School last June, passed away at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Farmer on the Portola road, in Portola, Wednesday night following a week's illness from spinal meningitis.

The young man was born in San Francisco and was 16 years of age. Besides his parents, he leaves a sister, Marie Burness Farmer, his grandmother, Mrs. Harriet E. Farmer, an aunt, Mrs. A. L. McRowe, and an uncle, Ben B. Spurr.

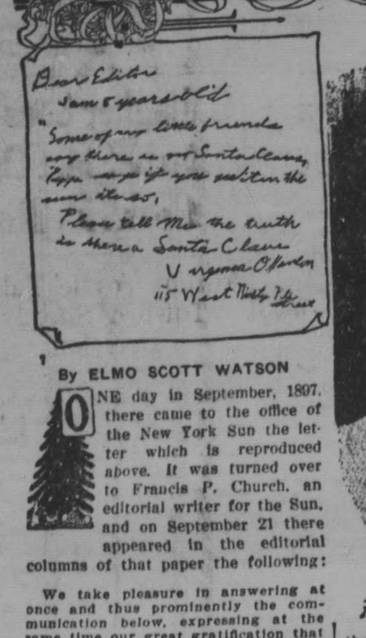

Rolling was prominent in athletics during his high school days, and last year served as manager of the football and basketball teams.

Funeral services will be held this (Friday) afternoon from the Tinney Funeral Parlors in Palo Alto at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

The Y. M. I. will hold a card party next Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the club rooms of the Carmel Men's Club on Warren street. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Al Bullivant, "Peggy" O'Neil, Vincent Murphy and Ben Schweikert.

Yes, There Is a Santa Claus!

POSTMASTER JAMES F. MARTIN AT SANTA CLAUS, IND.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ONE day in September, 1897, there came to the office of the New York Sun the letter which is reproduced above. It was turned over to Francis P. Church, an editorial writer for the Sun, and on September 21 there appeared in the editorial columns of that paper the following:

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

Dear Editor—I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

Papa says: "If you see it in the Sun it's so."

Please tell me the truth; "is there a Santa Claus?"

Virginia O'Hanlon.

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or little children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as drear as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christ-Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, omance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

It is doubtful if Church realized, when he wrote that editorial, that he had penned a classic. Yet, such was the case, for in the years that have followed it has been reprinted, both voluntarily and by request, in thousands of newspapers thousands of times. It has been translated into many foreign languages (even the Chinese!) and every year around Christmas time you will see it in print somewhere.

Not only has "Yes, There Is a Santa Claus" become a part of the American Christmas tradition, but the little eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon, who once wanted her faith in Santa Claus reaffirmed, has become a legend, and as such, some have doubted that there ever was such a girl. For the reassurance of those it may be said that there not only was such a girl but that she still is living. The little Virginia O'Hanlon of 1897 is Mrs. Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas of today, a school teacher in New York, a widow and the mother of a daughter, Laura Virginia, who, it is needless to say, also believes that there is a Santa Claus.

Since Virginia O'Hanlon's letter was first printed letters have come to her every Christmas, from lonely people whose faith in all things is shaken. She has become a symbol of trust and of everlasting childhood, for many of the letters are written as though she is still only eight years old. Many of them are addressed in her maiden name but they are delivered to her at the home of her father, Dr. Philip O'Hanlon, where Christmas is observed just as it was in 1897.

At that home an enterprising reporter sought her out in 1927, just thirty years after her famous letter was written, and in a copyright article issued by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas reaffirmed her belief that Frank Church was right in saying there is a Santa Claus because he is the symbol for the faith the world lives by. She said:

I wish that it could be made easier for all children to believe in Santa Claus, in the way that Mr. Church meant.

My only doubt, when I was small, was about the identity of Santa Claus. Some of my playmates were skeptical. Their own parents were under suspicion. So I began to wonder whether my Christmas presents really came down the chimney, and whether the stocking at the fireplace would be filled by a picturesque old fellow from the North pole.

But I'm afraid there are many thousands of children without any confidence that their stockings will be filled by anybody. It has always been so, but it seems worse now, because the children from poor homes are taken to the big stores, by their teachers in the kindergartens and sch ls, and see all of the dolls and toys that more fortunate children will receive.

Half dazed, the poor little things are led through aisles overflowing with the most wonderful and expensive toys, and then they are presented to the store Santa Claus, and he asks them what they want. Timidly they speak of a doll or a drum, or some trinket of no consequence in the luxuriant stock of a big store. And they mention it only to be polite. There may be a Santa Claus, but not for them. Last Christmas there wasn't any.

Isn't there some way to keep every child from being entirely disappointed on Christmas day? Couldn't the teachers in the schools find out the simple, modest desires of these wistful children, and then couldn't the community provide the money to give to every small child the particular small toy that he craves?

It may be impracticable but it is more than a sentimental wish. I think that ever child should have the confidence and faith that are typified by a belief in Santa Claus. I don't mean that perfect trust in the integrity of parents, which begins before a baby discovers the moon and the grass, and ice cream and Christmas, and ends when he finds certain packages tucked away in the closet, about the middle of December.

That perfect trust is lovely and touching, and something to make thougntful parents feel meek and inadequate, but it can pass without serious consequences. I mean belief in people and in the goodness of life, and in the spirit of Christmas.

Within recent years there has been written another "Santa Claus editorial," brought about by circumstances similar to those which inspired Church's immortal bit of prose, which reassures childish faith in the good St. Nick and which, if one may safely predict what will or will not become a "Newspaper Classic," may eventually enjoy a wide fame. It appeared in the Greenwood (Ark.) Democrat and reads as follows:

SANTA CLAUS, IMMORTAL

Six-year-old Opal Marie Adams heard some of her elders discussing a news item which told of the death, in a wreck, of a man who was playing Santa Claus. This news of the death of Santa Claus was heart-breaking to the little girl. Explanation by her parents were not wholly satisfying. She asked her mother to see the editor of the Democrat and learn if the news were true.

Opal Marie may banish all of her fears, for Santa Claus still lives. The man who was killed in the wreck was but one of those hundreds of thousands of mortal aides to Santa Claus who bring joy to children and to men and women, all over the world. Because these people live their unselfish lives in such close communion with Santa Claus they are selected by him as his assistants. The messages they bring to us come direct from him. Their lives are a constant reassurance to us that there is a Santa Claus, and our wavering faith is strengthened.

But these aides are mortal. They live their purposeful lives and pass on. Santa Claus we know to be immortal. He has lived through all the ages since the breath of civilization touched savagery; he will live through all the ages yet to come.

No, Opal Marie, the Santa Claus you love was not killed in the wreck. There is no disaster so great but that he can and will survive it. All through the horrors and sorrows of the great World war Santa Claus was in the trenches of all the armies on both sides. Wherever disaster, pestilence and suffering exist, there will Santa Claus always be found bringing comfort and happiness and none of these have the power to shorten his life for an instant, nor to stay his hand in his ministry to the needy. Into the homes of the poor as well as into the mansions of the rich he pays his secret visits and sheds his cheery blessings impartially. He may not always bring to you all the joys you wish, but in his great wisdom he will bring to you those which he knows are best for you. And though you, as a little girl, may not see him now when he steals into your home, you will be able to see him when you have grown older. And when you have visualized him you will have communed with Divinity.

Your Santa Claus lives, Opal Marie, and there is no harm that can ever befall him.

Is there a Santa Claus?

Ask J. F. Martin, postmaster of the town of Santa Claus, Ind.! For there is such a town (not to mention a St. Nicholas, Pa.) and the story of how it came into being is interesting. The town Santa Claus was first christened Santa Fe, when it was founded in 1846. One Thomas Smith, a surveyor, was called upon to plot the place, originally composed of seventeen town lots. Seventy-six years before that time, Shadrack Hall had built a tannery there.

For several years the town went by the name of Santa Fe, the population increasing all the while. After families had settled in the village it was decided to apply to the government for a post office. While the request was being considered, postal authorities observed that there was another town in Indiana named Santa Fe. Consequently the post office department ruled that there could not be post offices in two towns of the same name in any one state.

Notice to that effect was sent to the people of Santa Fe a few days before Christmas, in 1855. Immediately calling a mass meeting to see what could be done about renaming the town, the citizens of Santa Fe decided to give their village the name of Santa Claus.

Santa Claus, Ind., is in Spencer county, twelve miles from the Ohio river and about four miles from Lincoln City, near the boyhood home of Abraham Lincoln and the site of the famous Nancy Hanks Lincoln memorial. It has about one hundred inhabitants, boasts a milk and cream station, a blacksmith shop and a combination general store and post office over which Mr. Martin presides. But the most interesting thing about Santa Claus, Ind., is the fact that every year that post office is flooded with letters to Santa Claus from children not only from all parts of the United States but from Canada, Mexico and other foreign countries as well.

Mr. Martin has been postmaster for twenty-seven years and in that time has played Santa Claus to millions of children. For he reads all letters he receives from children and, if he has time, answers some of them.

"Mostly, they're just gentle reminders to Santa," he says. "Sometimes I run across queer requests for gifts. One boy asked for a baby elephant.' On rare occasions he receives letters after Christmas, thanking Santa for past favors.. During the Christmas season parents wishing to make the Yuletide more realistic often mail boxes of addressed and stamped letters to the Santa Claus post office to have them posted with the official "Santa Claus" postmark. Many persons interested in unusual stamp cancellations write to the postmaster asking him to cancel stamps on enclosed envelopes and return them by mail.

Discover New Plant

A new plant called "brotex," discovered by a British gardener, is expected to revolutionize British agriculture. Its originator says it will yield raw material for three industries, fiber for textiles, wood cellulose for paper making, and seed for cattle food. A company is to control the production of brotex, which already has been tested with success at paper mills. The plant is a biennial, producing fiber its first season and seeding in its second year. On suitable soil, brotex grows 6 feet high in six months. If brotex is not in the "just as good" class it may bless the world, even though it should revolutionize world industries, for doubtless it can be grown generally. Time will tell.—Capper's Weekly.

Flower Business Grew

Six years ago, Stanley and Gordon Hunt, now eighteen and fifteen respectively, retailed bouquets of flowers in Manchester, Iowa, for 5 cents a bunch. So great was the demand for the flowers that the two boys, together with their mother, Mrs. M. R. Hunt, gradually worked into the bulb and hardy plant business and this year they planted more than 1,000,000 gladiolus bulbs and twenty-five bushels of bulblets for next year. Their flower garden, less than an acre six years ago, now covers fifteen acres while the annual net profit from the business runs into the thousands of dollars.

Business Must Grow

There is a good deal of loose talk flying around concerning the effect of the recent stock market on American business.

Though thousands of persons have lost money in the recent slump in stock prices, they are not suddenly going to give up their mode of living and accept a substantially lowered standard, so long as their jobs are safe. And the latest government report on employment, showing that it is down only about 2.5 per cent from September and still well above last year—does that indicate that these jobs are yet in any great danger?

Business may be affected to some extent. But there are millions of persons who own outright the securities of basic industries, bought on expert advice. They have little to worry about for the wheels of industry will keep turning and normal profits and dividends should be paid as in the past.

In the meantime business will grow and new millions will be invested in its securities by persons who seek the advice of reputable bankers and brokers.

Earning, Saving, Spending, Three Component Parts of Thrift

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift

So much is said about thrift from the standpoint only of saving money, that many are led to believe that the two words "thrift" and "saving" are synonymous.

Manfestly the mere process of saving is not thrift. It is thrifty to save. It is thrifty also to fit oneself for greater earning capacity. It is thrifty to become efficient in the matter of spending and investing.

Thousands of persons throught the United States have in recent years been earning ample amounts and have been saving a fair portion of their earnings. But, lured by the hope of inordinate profits, they lost their savings in the stock market crash. They were thrifty, in two essentials but decidely thriftless in the third.

One of the best illustrations of the point under discussion was furnished by the late Andrew Carnegie. He was asked which he considered the most important—earning, saving or spending. He replied by asking this simple question: "Which of the three legs of a stool is the most important?"

This is a particularly timely topic now when the ill-effects of the unwise employment of funds is causing so much distress.

Countless numbers have lost their savings. The earning power of many has been curtailed. It is a good time, therefore, for all of us to keep in mind the thought that the prudent administration of one's accumulations is every bit as important as one's capacity to earn and to save.

With the vast majority of people, saving is a slow, patient process. The margin between income and the necessities of life is not wide. Hence, it is all the more necessary that greater attention be given to the problems involved in the proper use of savings.

Every saved dollar represents hard work and self-denial. Just as much thought and care should be used, therefore, in handling these funds as was employed in acquiring and saving them. If this rule were applied by every one, there would a tremendous elimination of lost or wasted money.

Lots of Christmas Mail

Superintendents of mail in various cities have wisely prepared for the heaviest Christmas business in history. Extra men have been employed to assist carriers in delivering mail and to take care of the rush inside the postoffices. The postal authorities have helped to increase Christmas mailing by their own efficiency. The slogan "Mail Early" has taken hold of the public imagination. It entails shopping early. Better means of caring for early mailers—and late ones, too—encourage more people to send more gifts by mail. If it were too difficult an operation they'd drop the habit little by little, instead of cultivating it to ever greater extent. Obviously Santa Claus isn't to suffer much from current financial disturbances.

Redwood City Store Windows

Store windows make the holidays. Redwood City merchants have contributed greatly to the Yuletide spirit this year. The downtown store windows are very effectively trimmed with Christmas merchandise and is well worth your time to come down and view.

This matter of window dressing has become tremenduously important. Where windows are attractive, the persons that pass by are made gayer, more alive by looking at them. They provide inspiration. They awaken ambition. Streets with dull show windows seem dead. Streets with windows trimmed tastefully, well lighted, have charm and attract. This charm in turn is reflected in hundreds of homes—the homes of purchasers who have been lured by an attractive window.

Redwood City merchants have played an important part this year in making their show windows and stores more colorful and brighter. It isn't necessary to leave Redwood City to do your holiday shopping. Come down town, look around, and you'll get the spirit and realize that right here in Redwood City you'll find as good assortments as well displayed as you'll find anywhere.

War's Alternative! Is There Any?

Militarists and Big Navy boosters for many years have harped on the worn out words, "If you want Peace, prepare for War." Their system for centuries was tried and failed utterly. It culminated in the late "war to end war." Thereafter President Wilson succeeded in persuading the majority of civilized nations to establish an International Court of Justice, which for many previous decades had been the dream of his distinguished predecessors.

But our Senators, at the behest of a bunch of "Irreconcilables," have for a decade past hesitated to permit this country to accept its share of the responsibilities and benefits offered by this court as now established, and of which a prominent American jurist is one of the Judges.

Now comes President Hoover and asks the Senate to take the necessary action and let this country do its bit, joining the court and adopting the consistent course of reducing armament in accordance with that decision. But certain Senators hesitate to make any advance in the direction desired unless the public is first "morally and mentally disarmed." This is already done! The man in the street, so far as I know him, needs no further argument to convince him of the utter idiocy of war and its inefficacy to attain any desirable end whatsoever.

The aftermath of the last war, with its miserable harvest of death, disease, and debt, is still in his mind's eye; and the prospect of another war with its multiplied miseries and horrors unspeakable has no attractions for him. He knows that, if individuals can settle private disputes and difficulties by reference to Justice, quarrels among nations can also be settled by Justice. Let our Senate do its bit to further President Hoover's efforts; terminate world anarchy and give us a warless world instead of a lawless world!

EDWARD BERWICK
Pacific Grove, Calif.

The Nation's Pulse

Many things do not constitute a wrong in themselves until they displace something of greater value. Many amusements are morally legitimate, but if they keep us from Church they do us a moral injury. The Church is the pulse of national righteousness. It means hospitals, colleges, civic organizations and national government; it means better schools, cleaner politics, purer social life; it means law and order and respect for those ideals that make a nation great; it means the reformation of individual life, it is the voice of God in the midst of the people, calling them up and on. There is danger of that voice being silenced with the clatter of our materialism. Let us think of all that the Church has done, of all it means today, and then give its sacred influences first place in our hearts and minds.

Now will someone please call a conference at Washington for the limitation of arguments.

The consciousness of duty performed gives us music at midnight.—George Herbert.

What seems to us but dim funeral tapers may be heaven's distant lamps—Longfellow.

Fish and Game :NOTES:

The turkey shoots given by the San Mateo County Fish and Game Protective Association were very successful, nearly 50 turkeys being disposed of.

It is the intention of the Association to repeat the shoots on the same grounds December 15th and 22nd.

The regular monthly meeting was held in the Legion Hall, Bellevue avenue, on Tuesday, November 26, and was well attended.

The silver cups offered by the club for the largest deer horns of mule tail variety were won by Dr. J. M. Foley and Allan Harding, respectively.

The remaining prizes including for the largest striped bass, the largest trout caught on a fly, predatory animals and trap shooting prizes will be given at a later date.

The club will own a large silver shield on which from time to time will be engraved the names of the winners in the various classes.

This will remain the property of the club and be of sufficient size to carry all the winners names for several years.

The question of the proposed purchase of 137 acres near the San Mateo County Legion Park was thoroughly discussed and approved of, the details being left in the hands of Bruce Gibson and a committee.

It is proposed to incorporate on a non-profit basis and include 150 or more members who may erect shacks for week-end recreation and the program also embraces a large pond for fly and plug casting, rifle range, blue rock shooting grounds and other attractions.

Any one interested in becoming a charter member may obtain full particulars and cost by communicating with Bruce Gibson.

The long time term of payment is so nominal and generous that no one interested in the great out-of-doors where the family may participate cannot afford to ignore this opportunity.

HERE'S WHAT MAY BE NEW RECORD FOR HELEN WILLS

Perhaps the record for a Long Distance newspaper interview was established when the engagement of Miss Helen Wills of tennis fame to Frederick Shander Moody, Jr., of San Francisco, was announced. The London Evening News, on receiving the report of the engagement, called up the tennis star on the transatlantic transcontinental telephone, and in this way secured direct confirmation of the story, and her assurance that the engagement would not interfere with her Wimbledon visit this year.

It was around dinner time in London when the enterprising British newspaper called up the American star, but it was around breakfast time on the Pacific Coast. The reporter and the American girl were separated by more than 6,000 miles of land and water.

POSTMASTER TELLS PROPER METHOD OF USING XMAS SEALS

The Following notice has been received from the Post Office Department, and postmasters are asked to comply with these instructions, as follows:

"Christmas stamps or other adhesive stamps or labels, in aid of charitable institutions or objects must be affixed to the back side of all mail articles and not to the address side of the covers. Unless the foregoing condition is complied with, articles bearing non-postage stamps will not be dispatched from this country, but will be returned to the senders, if known; otherwise they will be sent to the Division of Dead Letters.

"As has been customary each year during the Christmas holidays, the requirement that domestic mail, including that for all the possessions of the U. S., bearing on the address side adhesive seals or stickers, other than lawful postage stamps, shall be treated as unmailable, is suspended from Dec. 1, 1929 to Jan. 1 1930. Postmasters shall, however, inform their patrons that such seals or stickers should not be placed on the address side of mail."

RIGHT OF WAY FIXED BY WASHINGTON COURT

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12—(UP)—The age-old question of "who has the right-of-way" has been decided by the supreme court of the state of Washington, according to the state division of motor vehicles.

In the latest decision on this subject, the Washington court held that the right or preference at a crossing does not arise "except when drivers are approaching at the same time and approximately the same speed."

In this event, the car on the right has the right of way, and it is no excuse to say that trees obscured the way, for this should only increase the vigilance, the court ruled.

During the decennial period from 1890 to 1900, three new counties were formed, Madera, Kings and Riverside.

Despite considerable "political discussion" of forming several counties out of the present Los Angeles county, it has never materialized. The last major operation upon that county was in 1889, when the county of Orange was formed by cutting off a slice of Los Angeles county.

In the "fifties" San Mateo county was created from San Francisco, the latter becoming a city and county of 42 square miles. Now legislation is being enacted by which San Francisco and San Mateo counties may be united.

San Francisco remains the most densely populated county in the state of California, with an average of more than 18,000 people to the square mile.

Even my partners called me a boob but that didn't stop me as long as my apparently illogical bids and plays upset my opponents and kept winning for me."

The foregoing advice can be taken for what it is worth, but it certainly should make all players think and by starting them to think, cannot help but improve their games.

End Plays

One of the usual statements heard at a card table is "That was a pretty end play" or "Partner, you missed a chance for an end play."

What is an end play, and is there any way for the average player to learn how to make one? There are thirteen tricks in every hand and by the time the first eight or nine tricks are won or lost, every player should either know exactly or have a good idea as to the location of the remaining cards held by each player. Very frequently such knowledge can be put to good use and tricks can be won that would be impossible if the location of the remaining cards were not known. Such plays are the so-called "End Plays" and the best way to master their principles is by a study of numerous examples.

Here are four simple cases. Study them over carefully and decide what you would do. Your results should make an interesting comparison with the analysis that will be given in the next Article.

Menlo Park Lodge F. & A. M. Elect Officers for Year 1930

At the December stated meeting of Menlo Park Lodge No. 651, F. & A. M., held on December 6, the officers for 1930 were elected as follows:

Victor L. Hugo, Worshipful Master; Bert T. Harper, Senior Warden; T. Bryan Hunnell, Junior Warden; John B. Glunz, treasurer; Dr. J. Ross Hardy, secretary; Frank S. Becker, member of board of trustees.

The installation of the newly elected officers, and of the appointive officers of the lodge will occur late in December, at a date to be settled soon.

Menlo Park lodge is to be congratulated on the officers chosen to serve the lodge, and the coming year promises well for its continued prosperity.

City Council Meets; Police Department Complimented

Accompanying the report were several fatering comments on the efficiency of the police department during the big game last month. Among those who wrote letters were A. E. Roth, controller of Stanford University; President of California Automobile Association; and Frank G. Snook.

City Attorney Whitworth reported that he had applied to the board of supervisors for seven additional lights of 250 candle power and said request was granted.

Chief of Police Furman reported that the department car was painted white to comply with the decision recently rendered by Attorney General Webb. The cost of the same would be between $40 and $50.

The remainder of the meeting was given over to a discussion of the proposed street improvement in Stanford Park. Mr. Armstrong, an engineer and a resident of that district, wanted to know the estimate of the proposed work, its character, etc. Armstrong displayed a deep study of the question. He said the people he represented would like to know all the facts before taking action as to whether or not they would enter a protest to the proceedings. The mayor declared that the matter would not be rammed through the council, that everyone would be accorded the right to be heard on the important question. Undue haste would not be tolerated. He pledged himself to have an estimate of the proposed work filed in the office in a few days.

On motion the city engineer was instructed to prepare such estimate. The date for the protest was set at the last meeting for Tuesday evening, December 17, when all the property owners in Stanford Park are to be present to discuss the subject. The council adjourned to that time.

"The Masked Lady" Draws Forth A Large Crowd

"The Masked Lady" in three mysterious acts presented in the Hall of the Nativity last Friday evening was largely attended. The performance was the very best ever presented to a Menlo Park audience. The players showed the result of their many rehearsals and the study of their respective parts of the plot. It would be invidious to give special mention to any one player for they all did splendidly showing marked histrionic ability. D. E. Sullivan deserves praise for his training of the embreyo actors and actresses. He is one of the best portrayers of the drama on the coast. Those taking part in the pley were:

Thomas Glynn, Joseph Sullivan, Miss Alma Bracesco, Miss Ellen Weston, Miss Catherine Partee, Miss Mary Carleton, Desmond Sullivan, Jack Tutle, Miss Mary Weston, Miss Julia Kearney, Miss Emily McCarthy, James O'Keefe, Jr., Edward O'Keefe, Joseph McCarthy, Miss Alice May Sullivan, Barbara Maloney, Bobby Quilfelt.

COMMUNICATION

To the Property Owners
Affected by the Proposed Paving

Which does the action of the city council mean directly to you, confiscate or improvement? Have you your bank account or property in such shape that you can afford the additional tax incident to the unnesessary, at this date, cement streets, curbs, sidewalks storm sewers and sewer connections? Or will it mean that if this additional exvpense is added to your present monthly budget it will make your rent higher than your pocket book can reach?

This proposed improvement rests entirely on the discretion of the majority of the property owners in front footage, provided they make their wishes known in the proper form.

December 17 is set as the date protests should be lodged. All owners not on record as against the proposition are counted in favor thereof, so you will realize the utmost importance of signing a petition against the proposition in that is how you feel regardng it. NEW CIRCUITS LINK MONTREAL AND NEW YORK

Direct Wires Provided to Meet Increasing Demand for Telephone Service

Long Distance telephone service between New York and Montreal has increased to such an extent that it has become necessary to provide additional direct circuits. These circuits are designed not only to take care of this increasing business, but to maintain a fast and efficient toll service between those points and also for additional circuits from New York to Albany to certain intermediate points south of Montreal.

This improvement, planned jointly by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, was completed by December 31, 1929, when one group of four wires were strung throughout from the Lansingburg Office at Troy, N. Y., to Montreal, and from two to four additional wires in certain intermediate sections. The wires were placed by 95 men working in nine different gangs. The route lies partly in New York State and partly in Vermont via Bennington, Rutland and Brandon where they go across Lake Champlain to Ticonderoga and thence north through Elizabethtown and Plattsburg to Montreal.

The wires will serve more than one purpose, as they can be used for telephone message service and at the same time for telegraph service, and in addition, it will be possible to superimpose upon them carrier current systems from which additional telephone or telegraph circuits can be derived. The new wires are for the most part No. 10 gauge, although in certain sections some No. 8 gauge wire has been strung in contrast to the No. 12 gauge wire which was formerly largely used. The heavier wire is expected to prove more serviceable as it will be better able to withstand the strains resulting from the sleet and wind storms of the winter season.

Funeral Services For Mrs. C. Beeger

On Friday last, December 6th, in Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo, Mrs. Lina Dumourlez Beeger passed away, after an illness of only four days. An impressive funeral service was held in the Crowe Funeral Home, Redwood City, on Monday afternoon, and immediately afterward interment took place at the Catacombs of Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Beeger was the wife of Carl Beeger of Redwood City; a grandniece of the late James H. Budd, Governor of California; and the daughter of Mme Zilla Dumouriez de Nivernais, wife of former Congressman de Nivernais.

In the death of this young woman, who since her marriage was a resident of this community, San Mateo county loses one of its most charming and interesting personalities.

She was descended from distinguished French ancestry, but was a native of the United States and educated chiefly in this country. Her education was uncommonly broad, her travels uncommonly extensive; and inheritance, culture and travel combined to produce in her such graces of the mind as are rarely to be found.

In music she was especially gifted. It was the opinion of competent authorities that had she chosen to pursue the career of a professional pianist she would have taken high rank among the artists of the time; and some of her compositions for the piano are of a fine order of beauty.

Very quietly but very profoundly she loved physical nature, particularly in its big moods; and all her life she was an active friend of animals and birds—ever eager to protect them from cruelties. She took a leading part in the work of the local Humane Society.

In the course of his feeling words at her funeral, the Rev. Mr. Stevens quoted these lines as showing with what backward look she went into the shadows:

"Thing of me as withdrawn into the dimness,
Yours still, you mine.
Remember all the best of our past moments and forget the rest.
And so to where I wait come gently on."

She leaves beautiful memories that will be treasured.

Th... ...e, December 17, 1904

A slig... earthquake was felt Wednesday morning, shortly after 7:00 o'clock.

The Redwood City Athletic Club was organized with 35 members last Monday evening.

Dr. A. W. Collins has been appointed an assistant surgeon in the French Hospital, San Francisco.

L. Hexner is having plans drawn for a six-room house, which he will have erected on his lot in the Robinson subdivision.

Miss Emma Hayward, '06 Stanford, is chairman of the Capitola committee to arrange for the annual Y. W. C. A. convention at Capitola this spring.

The young ladies of the high school will give a leap year dance to-night at the Alhambra. Good music has been provided and a fine time may be expected.

A suitable building will be erected soon by John Hanley on his corner on A street, and will be leased to Joe Rodgers for a saloon.

Jas. V. Swift has purchased the property in which Mrs. Barger has conducted a fruit store for several years, and will build an addition to the place. He will then move the Democrat from its present location to the new place.

Hull Bros. formally opened their new hardware store on Monday, and are more than pleased with the patronage they have been receiving. N. B. Graves will continue with the the firm until Guy Hull is familiar with the details of the business.

The home of Mrs. Robert Brown was the scene of a very happy gathering last Saturday night at which Rev. F. H. Maar and family were the guests of honor. The party was arranged by the Christian Endeavor Society.

Hall Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ross, was admitted to practice law by the Supreme Court Wednesday, after a rigid examination. He passed muster with flying colors, having answered all questions asked him by the Chief Justice with promptness, demonstrating his ability and knowledge of law. Young Ross will graduate from the law department of Stanford next May, and will at once enter into the active practice of his profession. He has a bright future in the career he has chosen, and his friends wish hi mevery success.

TELEPHOTO HELPS TRAP MAN WANTED BY POLICE

Detective Captains H. A. Hansley and Claude P. Peters of Los Angeles got their man the other day after they had traced him two-thirds of the way across the continent by means of a telephotograph.

The man was wanted for a shortage in his accounts. This shortage was discovered only some thirty minutes after he had disappeared, and before the day was out his photograph, finger-prints and an accurate description of the man had been spread to cities of over 20,000 inhabitants. This was done first by means of telephotographs wired to the various central offices where facilities are located, and from these cities sent out by airplane. The man was finally located in Louisiana.

Music Pupils Score Success With Recital

Sunday afternoon at the Redwood City Woman's Club House, Miss Inez Jamieson, the popular piano teacher of this city, presented her music class, in a piano recital, which was judged one of the most successful recit's held this year. The stage was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the hall was filled to its capacity with an appreciative audience of parents and friends of the young performers.

The affair was a success in every respect, and at the close of the program Miss Jamieson was greatly surprised to be presented with two large gorgeous baskets of flowers, one from her pupils and one from friends in the audience.

Each performer showed excellent training and received much applause.

This recital was such a success, that another one will probably be given in the near future.

Miss Jamieson wishes to publicly thank her two guest artists for the afternoon, who were Miss Virginia Klassen who played harp selections, and Miss Jean Ann Palmer, who did clever acrobatic and a toe dance.

Special thanks is given to Mrs. Bartell, the matron of the Woman's Club, for the courtesy and kindness extended to Miss Jamieson and the pupils during rehearsals and the performance.

Jury Holds Death In Car Accidental

Accidental death due to a fracture skull and cerebral hemmorage received in a collision between an automobile and a truck on the highway near Belmont. This was the verdict of a jury called by County Coroner J. C. McGovern to hear witnesses to the death of Mrs. Marion Newell, who was killed in a crash near Belmont on October 17.

The inquest was postponed from earlier dates due to the serious injuries of M. Walburn of Palo Alto, driver of the car in which Mrs. Jewell was riding. The day of the inquest was the first day that Walburn has been out of the hospital. The accident occured when Walburn's car crashed into the rear of a trailer drawn by a truck which had stalled on the highway. Mrs. Jewell had gone with Walburn to the French hospital in San Francisco to visit her husband, who was confined to the hospital at the time.

County Taxcollecter A. McSweeney reports that he has collected on the first installment of taxes for 1929, the sum of $1,375,660.85. The amount of taxes to be collected on both instalments is $2,450,890.26. Mr. McSweeney says the collections compare favorably with those of past years, which speak well for the prosperity of the county. Other counties of the state have fallen short considerably on their collection of taxes.

"Electric Eye" Counts Cars At Ambassador Bridge

A four-speed Graham-Paige is about to cast its shadow on the electric eye in the road-way at the toll-gate of the new Ambassador Bridge, between Detroit and Windsor, Canada, by passing under a powerful electric spotlight directly overhead. Interrupting the beam of light operates an electrical device actuated through a light-sensitive selenium coil, and thus automatically registers the passing of each car on a totalizer inside the main tollhouse.

The automatic count serves as a check against the total number of receipts issued by the gate-keepers. Another Graham-Paige, similar to the one shown in the photograph, was the first "cash customer" car to cross the new bridge.

TWO JAILED AFTER CRASH AT PORTOLA

A Steiner, 64, and Alex McInnis, 59, both gardeners, were arrested at Portola Tuesday and charged with being intoxicated. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Neri, after a complaint had been phoned to the sheriff's office that a car containing two drunken men had run into another machine at Portola.

The other car was one driven by Mrs. Marie Coombs. When Neri arrived he found both Steiner and McInnis under the influence of liquor. They were brought to the jail here.

Newspapers Are Vital to People, Educator Finds

Classes in Newspaper Reading Needed Is Assertion

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5—(UP)—Classes in newspaper reading should be established in California's public schools, according to a recommendation by Roy L. French, professor of journalism at the University of California, to the state department of education.

"Newspapers are the most vital source of important public information today," said French. "They are better than ever before, giving more news and giving it more accurately. There's no substitute for a newspaper. Public speeches, the radio, moving pictures and magazines cannot take its place.

"Have you ever asked yourself these things: How would you decide to vote without the information given by your newspaper? Having voted, how would you know who had been elected? How would you test the records of public officials? How would you know about new laws and whether the law is being enforced, without newspapers?

The adult is not trained for intelligent newspaper reading. He doesn't appreciate what a mine of succinct and vital information is his to read either at home or on the streetcar. Let us not hamper our school children by leaving them with this same lack of training."

Jan. 1, Last Date For Compensation

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5—(UP)—World war veterans who have not yet filed application for the adjusted compensation made available to them by Congress are warned by Secretary George M. Stout of the State Veterans' Welfare Board that Jan. 1, 1930 is positively the last day for such applications.

Congress has extended the time limit twice before, but Stout says that general opinion is that this will not be done again. The veteran who fails to apply will have no recourse.

May Have Conveniences in Farm Kitchen

Well Arranged Kitchen on a New Jersey Farm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The conveniences in this farm kitchen are unusual. Running hot and cold water is available in the very modern tap in the white porcelain sink which, it may be noticed, is placed sufficiently high for a medium-sized woman. There is a left-hand drain board, provided with a drain basket; a sanitary garbage pail, a white metal wastebasket, and a ladder stool. Among the utensils on top of the electric range is a coffee percolator.

In the daytime good light from the window reaches the sink, while at night an overhead electric light furnishes the necessary illumination. The washtubs in the recess have the benefit of the window for light and air, and are near enough to the sink to serve as a table for dishes or other articles when not in use. The wall behind the electric range is tiled for safety and cleanliness. Another light fixture is well placed over the range. The enamel topped table will not be hurt when hot dishes are set on it, and like the linoleum-covered floor it is easy to keep clean. The kitchen cabinet, which is the food preparation center, is well situated near the sink where vegetables and fruits are washed and peeled, utensils filled with water and washed after being used.

This illustration was taken in New Jersey by the United States Department of Agriculture. The kitchen was improved by the owner to demonstrate suggestions for home improvement included in the county home demonstration program. It affords a good example of what can be done with careful planning of arrangement and wise selection of equipment.

About Good Things for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

It is no great matter to associate with the good and gentle, for this is naturally pleasing to all. But to be able to live peacefully with perverse and disorderly persons or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace and a most commendable and manly thing.—Thomas a Kempis.

Now that the weather is colder, we enjoy more hearty foods and have a craving for meats, fish and other protein foods.

The following are a couple of meat dishes which will be well liked:

Carolina Meat Dish.—Take one and one-half pounds of chopped beef, one small onion chopped, one large green pepper chopped fine, two small pickles cut into bits, one and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, the same of paprika and one pimento. Add strained tomato to the meat and seasonings—enough to moisten. Place roll in a greased pan and over the top place strips cut from one pimento. Bake thirty-five minutes in a hot oven. Then add some strips of bacon over the top and cook until they are crisp. Serve hot.

Another Upside Down Cake.—Place three tablespoonfuls of butter in a cold frying pan, add one cupful of brown sugar. Melt and add sliced peaches, apricots or sliced pineapple—canned may be used. Pour over this a batter made with one beaten egg, one-half cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of milk (hot) and one cupful of flour mixed with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix as usual and bake in the oven forty-five minutes. When ready to serve, turn upside down and serve with cream or a sauce that may be made from the fruit juice used.

Savory Spinach Salad.—Dissolve one package of lemon jello in three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water and three-fourths cupfuls of spinach juice, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. When slightly thickened add one and one-half cupfuls of cooked, chopped spinach, three-fourths cupful of onion juice and turn into a mold. Serve unmolded on lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise dressing and sliced cooked egg.

Baked Ham.—Boil a four or five-pound piece of ham for several hours until tender. Let it cool in the liquor. When ready, place in a baking pan, cover with a thick layer of brown sugar, with fine bread crumbs over the top. Stick a few cloves in the ham and add milk or thin cream to cover the ham two-thirds of its height. Bake forty-five minutes.

It is interesting to note the food eaten by our foreign friends. The following are a few of their dishes:

Pilaf.—Put one-half pound of lamb or mutton cut into small pieces in a casserole in layers with two cupfuls of cracked wheat or rice, seasoning with salt and pepper and adding one-half cupful of tomato. Add three cupfuls of water and cook in a moderate oven until all is well cooked. Add more water if needed. Bake in a moderate oven well covered.

Vegetables, Oriental Style.—Chop two onions not too fine and fry in three tablespoonfuls of fat until a light brown. Add three pounds of turnips cut into walnut sized pieces, one carrot sliced, and a bunch of parsley finely minced. Season with salt and pepper and add one cupful of stock. Cook until tender.

Canned Egg Plant.—This will be a fine vegetable during the season when egg plants are not in the market. Peel, slice and quarter the egg plant, cover with boiling water and cover the saucepan tightly. Cook for 20 minutes, drain well, pack in jars and to each pint add a level teaspoonful of salt. Process in a water bath one hour and a half. Seal tightly and put away for winter use.

Warmed Over Potatoes.—Peel baked potatoes and slice thin, cover with flour, salt and pepper to taste, dot with bits of butter and lay in a greased frying pan. Add cream enough to cover. Cook, lifting carefully with a spatula to keep them from sticking; do not stir. When they are shiny and the cream absorbed they will be ready to serve.

A fruit cocktail is always a safe one, as it never leaves one with a muddled brain and a questioning mind later as to what you may have said, for you always know.

WHY WE BEHAVE LIKE HUMAN BEINGS

By GEORGE DORSEY, Ph. D., LL. D.

Why the Body Stops Growing

WHILE life remains in the body, the duct glands furnish the necessary chemicals for heat and energy and for the preparation of materials for growth and repair. If they fail to supply fuel, the body dies; if they fail to furnish building material, the body stops growing. Let us assume that the duct glands do not fail. It then appears that the body which began as a fertilized ovum develops into a 9-pound infant in 9 months. Why does it not develop into a 90-pound child in 90 months, to a 900-pound prodigy in 900 months? Even if it only kept up its first two years' rate growth, it would weigh 500 pounds in 24 years. It does not grow so big. It stops. Sometimes too soon—it is dwarfed; sometimes not soon enough—it is gigantic, though rarely, if ever, surpassing the nine feet three inches of Machnow, the Russian. But it stops. Why?

Meanwhile the growing body keeps changing in size, shape, proportions. Certain parts or organs appear before others start to appear. For a while the brain grows faster than the motor mechanism; at other times the motor mechanism grows more rapidly. The teeth have their special periods for growth. The infant's thigh bone at birth has 2,000,000 bone-building cells. When that bone is a finished adult product it contains over 150,000,000 bone cells. Why stop at so few? How do the leg bones know when to stop growing longer, the skull bones to stop growing larger?

Moore replaced a rat's ovaries with the sex glands from a male; her body and behavior took on decided male characteristics. By the same operation which converts the unruly bull into a docile ox and the stringy cock into a tender-fleshed capon, the Sistine chapel in Rome up to 1878 maintained its male sopranos. Why does the boy's voice begin to crack and his face, almost overnight as it were, begin to grow a beard where there was no sign of one? Is sex also, like growth and individuality, a whim of "heredity," or are our sex, individual traits, and physical growth under the control of definite regulators? Fifty years from now we shall begin to know the details, but enough is now known of the ductless glands and their secretions to open up not only a new chapter of life, but new accounts with life. They regulate sex, rate of growth of tissues and organs, and consequently physical traits.

The secretions of ductless glands are discharged direct into the blood, hence they are also called glands of internal secretion, or endocrines (endon, within; krino, I separate). There are commonly said to be seven endocrines proper: thyroid, parathyroid, and thymus, in the neck; pituitary and pineal, in the center of the head; adrenals and spleen, in the abdomen. But it is not yet proved that the thymus, pineal, and spleen are true glands. The liver, pancreas, and sex glands also function as endocrines.

Endocrine secretions are chemical in nature and are usually called hormones (exciters). They are also called autacoid substances; from acos, a remedy—they act like drugs. They are drugs, some of them of astounding potency. In fact, no man-made drugs are so powerful as some we make in our own drug store glands.

Mere regulation is not, of course, confined to the secretions of glands. For example, the chief regulator of the respiratory system is carbon dioxide, given off by every cell of our body; thus liberated, it functions as a hormone or "exciter." But, as Abel puts it, the hormones actually known are definite and specifically acting indispensable chemical products which modify development and growth of other organs, especially during embryonic life, and the entire metabolism, including that of the nervous system, during adult life.

Then, too, there is a collective operation of the endocrines, as yet not definitely known, but summarized by Barker as follows:

"More and more we are forced to realize that the general form and the external appearance of the human body depends to a large extent upon their functioning. Our stature, the kinds of faces we have, the length of our arms and legs, the shape of the pelvis, the color and consistency of our integument, the quantity and regional location of our fat, the amount and distribution of hair on our bodies, the tonicity of our muscles, the sound of the voice and the size of the larynx, the emotions to which our 'exterieur' gives expression—all are to a certain extent conditioned by the productivity of our hormonopoietic glands. We are, in a sense, the beneficiaries and the victims of the chemical correlations of our endocrine organs."

In short, the discovery of the hormones opens up anew the whole conception of heredity. We can now say that men are alike because they inherit the same kind of blood and similar sets of glands to secrete hormones for the blood to carry; but that men differ because they do not meet the same physical and chemical conditions during life and as a consequence do not develop the same catalyzers, the same immunity agents, or the same regulating agents.

Progress in Turkey

Turks no longer name children, as the old Turks did, for the wives and followers of the Prophet. The Anatolian city of Konia wins the prize for "modernization" with the bestowal upon a boy baby of the name of "Railroad." He was born on a train.

Fancied Boredom

THE BEDTIME STORY

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

It was snowing in the park and the squirrels were hurrying and scampering for their warm homes in the trees.

"Are you going to have a feast?" asked Chippy Chappy.

"A fine one," squeaked Sharpy, the squirrel.

Chippy was much cheered up when he heard that Sharpy was going to have a fine feast.

"When are you going to have it?" asked Chippy Chappy.

"This very afternoon," said Sharpy.

"We may quarrel a little," said Chippy Chappy. Sometimes, it is true, they did.

"Oh well, we may," said Sharpy. "It will be good for our digestions—or maybe it won't be good for our digestions.

"We will have to decide that later."

"What are digestions?" asked Chippy Chappy, cocking his head on one side.

He whisked his tail up high as he spoke.

"Digestions," squealed Sharpy, "are our stomachs—or something the same idea.

"At least when our stomachs receive our food happily we have a good digestion and when they don't we have a poor digestion."

"Well, we certainly have good digestions," said Chippy Chappy. "We receive food very happily."

"We assuredly do," said Sharpy.

"Most certainly," agreed Chippy Chappy.

"That is so," said Sharpy.

"Isn't afternoon here now?" asked Chippy Chappy. "It seems as though I had been talking to you all morning."

"That's not so very polite," said Sharpy. "It should give you great pleasure to talk to me."

"It does, Sharpy dear," said Chippy Chappy, but it gives me even greater pleasure, if that is possible, to eat with you."

Chippy Chappy said this with a sly little wink. But Sharpy did not notice it.

He was feeling hungry himself.

"Come along, afternoon or not, we'll have the feast."

So they went to Sharpy's hole, and of all the wonderful feasts Chippy Chappy had ever seen this one was the best.

"My mouth waters!" exclaimed Chippy Chappy. "My! But there is a feast here.

"Where did you get all these nuts? Oh, what a feast! How wonderful it is. Yes, it is simply wonderful."

"This Very Afternoon," Said Sharpy.

They did not talk any more, but began on their feast, and they had the most gorgeous one they had had in ever and ever so long.

They ate and they ate and they ate. And they munched and they munched and they munched.

But what do you suppose? After Sharpy's feast was over it was decided that they would go back to Chippy Chappy's home for dessert—so they had another feast all over again.

Indeed it was the best time either of them had had in ages and ages, and they certainly said their digestions were good for they received their food so very, very happily.

"A feast," said Chippy Chappy, "is a wonderful thing."

"More than that," said Sharpy, "it is a glorious thing." And then they sat on their branches and tried to think of everything they could say to describe how wonderful a feast could be.

Apple Butter an Excellent Spread

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Apple butter has not lost its old-time popularity, but it does not seem to be made in such generous quantities or in so many homes as formerly. It is an excellent spread for school or supper sandwiches, as well as a good preserve to use at any time. You can make apple butter out of the sound portions of windfall, wormy, and bruised apples, saving the perfect fruit for other uses.

While almost any apples will make good apple butter, those which have a distinctly rich, tart flavor and good cooking quality are most satisfactory. Such old standard varieties as Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Tompkins King, and Smokehouse, as well as Jonathan, Grimes Golden, Stayman Winesap, and other standard sorts are excellent for the purpose, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Overripe apples are not desirable but if they must be used a little vinegar, determined by taste, may be added to give some snap to the butter.

Either fresh cider or commercial sterilized cider may be used. The usual proportions of peeled and sliced apples to cider is gallon for gallon, but from one-half to three-quarters of a gallon of cider to a gallon of sliced apples will also give a rich product if the apples are good cookers. This mixture is cooked until the cider and apples do not separate and the butter when cold is as thick as good apple sauce. Strict attention must be given to stirring throughout the cooking, lest the butter scorch. Determine the thickness at frequent intervals by cooking small portions.

Sugar may be used or not, depending upon the individual taste. If sugar is used, add it after the cooking of cider and apples is about two-thirds done. A pound of either white or brown sugar per gallon of apple butter is the usual proportion. Apple butter is spiced according to taste. When the cooking is finished, about half a teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves, and allspice per gallon are stirred into the butter. From two to four teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract improves the flavor.

TO HOLD LINGERIE STRAPS

If your lingerie straps cause you embarrassment by frequently dropping off your shoulder while wearing short-sleeved dresses, try the following: Sew a short piece of tape to the shoulder seam of your dress. On the free end of the tape sew one section of a dome fastener and sew the other half to the shoulder seam. In this way all the lingerie straps can be securely held in place by the tape. Twill tape will be found to be satisfactory and white or black can be used, according to the color and the sheerness of the dress.

Food Requirements of a School Child

Daily food requirements of a school child are listed as follows:

One quart of milk in cooked food or as a beverage. The vegetables besides potatoes, including, if possible, a leafy vegetable. One or two fruits, with a raw fruit or vegetable included. Whole grain cereals and breads as frequently as white breads and refined cereals. Two servings of protein foods, such as meat, chicken, fish, eggs, cheese, dried beans and peas. Butter used freely. A quart and a half of liquid. Enough cereals, sweets and fats to provide energy.

Not All Material

In these new activities of earth and air, do not let sentiment disappear. Do not forget that falling streams make music as well as power, and flow as a poem to the sea. And that romance rides in the air.—American Magazine.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Proper lighting for your work, now, costs less than poor eyesight and glasses later.

Brown gravy for veal or lamb is particularly good if a little tart jelly is added to it.

To keep the metal tops of salt shakers from corroding, cover the inside with melted paraffin. While the paraffin is cooling, the holes may be opened with a pin.

Tomato and corn casserole makes a delicious luncheon main dish. Butter a casserole and fill it with alternate layers of cooked corn and sliced raw or cooked tomatoes, season the vegetables with salt, pepper, butter and a little chopped green pepper, cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Serve Baked Apples With Sausage

Baked apples with sausage fillings are prepared by coring and peeling large apple and filling the cavity from which the core has been taken with sausage meat. Place in a baking pan and pour in one cupful of water mixed with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a few drops of lemon juice. Cover the pan and bake until the apples are tender. Baste two or three times while cooking and uncover for the last 10 minutes to brown.

Sucking Fish Nets Turtle

In the West Indies natives catch turtles by throwing over a sucking fish held by a line. The sucker of the fish attaches to the turtle and the fisherman pulls in both fish and turtle. Salt is then applied to the sucking disk of the sucker and it quickly releases its prey.

Ready-to-String Necklace Fashion

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

"What an adorable necklace you have on! Just matches the green tone of your hat! Where could I buy one like it, only I would want mine in a brown shade, to go with my new velvet dress." "Sh! sh! it's a secret," the lady wearing the beautiful necklace very likely will reply, unless she is a very kindly disposed friend, in which event she will no doubt suggest that the enquiring one hasten to the nearest fancy needlework department and there learn about ready-to-string necklaces.

Heretofore the woman who aspired to a bead or jewel-strung necklace which has the coveted individual look, would have to go through the trying experience of buying, perhaps, one dozen jewels here, and then seek for, let us say, half-dozen smaller jewels to match, not to mention assembling the right sort of beads to harmonize with the jewels and a suitable clasp to which must be added dependable floss or thread to string them on. And after all was said and done this necklace enthusiast would have to use her own discretion in putting the component parts together, which would not always turn out satisfactorily.

However, all that tedious process is past. The ambitious woman who decides to give jewel or bead necklaces for Christmas, finds to her delight that most needlework departments are this season showing materials in "sets," the various items assembled on a single card. These outfits include jewels enough to complete the desired necklace, the beads, the clasp, and all the various parts carefully compiled by necklace specialists who know color values and artful design.

These collections cover a wide range of color effects including crystal, topaz, emerald, aquamarine, sapphire, rose, ruby, and others, which, if strung according to directions, give the handsome appearance of the necklace shown at the top to the left in the picture.

Just below is sketched one of the new many-strand satin bead necklaces which are so smartly in fashion just now. The original of the one pictured was in exquisite water-nymph green, the jeweled circlets sparkling like diamonds as they held the larger cut-stone beads in position.

Wool Garments Best for Youngsters

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In some climates it seems best to put the children into wool garments during the coldest months. Suits for the small boy from three to six years old, however, must be washable, and there must be several of them so that approximately the same weight is worn every day. Flannels and other woolens may be used if guaranteed washable, and if care is used in laundering them. It is particularly necessary to select patterns or models for wool suits that result in very simple, easily constructed and easily pressed garments, without unnecessary thickness of bulky material.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has made a study of the clothing of the small boy, and shows in the accompanying illustration several good points that can be applied to both wool and cotton clothing. The fastenings at the belt line are so very simple a child can manage them without help. Instead of having the front overlap the back, there are separate buttons for the front and the back drops. A one-piece trouser pattern has been used to eliminate side seams, and the side openings are bound to avoid heavy lapping plackets, which would add bulk in the wool material and make pressing more difficult. These openings end in an embroidered tailor's arrowhead, a strong, simple, and easily-made finish used on tailored clothing.

Several Good Points.

Scraps of Humor

PLENTY'A REASON

"Why are you so opposed to my marrying Jim?" demanded daughter indignantly.

"In the first place," declared her dad, "you are not strong enough to take in washing and you don't know anything about keeping boarders, and in the second place, my salary isn't large enough to stand another lazy son in the family."

Five Greatest Grid Players

"If I were called upon to select the greatest five all-around football players of all time," says Fielding H. Yost, "I would choose Jim Thorpe, Pudge Heffelfinger, Willie Heston, Tack Hardwick and Ted Coy. There might be some question about Hardwick; in fact, there might be some question about any one of five men that anyone might name.

"Heffelfinger and Schulz are by far the best linesmen I ever saw. I played with Heffelfinger on the Allegheny Athletic team in two games in 1896. He played in one of the charity games at Columbus, Ohio, within the last ten years.

Fielding H. Yost.

"Heston scored more than one hundred touchdowns for Michigan and played in more than fifty games. He never played a losing game and in only one tie game. When necessary he was one of the quickest and fastest defense men I ever saw.

"Friedman and Oosterbaan, in my judgment, are two of the greatest men that ever played football. Friedman is not so outstanding, perhaps, because in his sophomore year he was only an ordinary player. He has grown better all the time and in my judgment is the most valuable football player on any team in the country today. He was an almost unanimous choice for All-American honors.

"Eckersall, historically, stood very high in the discussion of all-time All-America elevens. He was selected three times by the late Walter Camp on his All-America, once as an end and twice as a quarterback.

"As I have already suggested one might discuss fifteen or twenty others, including such remarkable players as Mahan and Gipp, who all must be considered among the greatest. No one can name five men without starting an argument."

Knot-Hole Customer Is Cured by Batted Ball

There is one fan at Laurel, Miss., who will discontinue his membership in the adult knot-hole gang. Secretary Herb McMillan of the Laurel club tells the story of his conversion and believes the man will be added to the list of cash customers when he recovers. A few days ago, Catcher Smith of Vicksburg rapped a ball against the center field fence and Outfielder Roach, who had backed up for it, crashed into the barrier.

When the debris had been cleared, a man on the outside of the fence who had been peeking through a hole, was found to have sustained a broken nose.

He since has decided that a bleacher seat is more comfortable and cheaper in the long run.

National Hockey League to Change Scoring Rules

All scoring records, both for individuals and teams in the National Hockey league, are certain to be broken this year. Not only has the forward pass rule opened the way for increased scoring chances but the scoring rules have been changed to add a far greater number of assists this season. An assist counts one point, the same as a goal.

In the scoring rules this year a player will be given an assist whenever a goal is scored from a rebound of his shot. The new rules also make it possible to score two assists on one goal in a great many chances. Whenever there is a double pass in the scoring zone both players passing will be credited with assists.

Looking for Punch

In his second year as manager of the Washington club Walter Johnson will follow a new policy. He'll have a team with a punch, even if it isn't as good defensively as he would like. That is his announced plans for the coming year.

The new policy sort of goes against the grain for Johnson, for in 20 years of pitching his team featured a tight defense and Walter didn't permit opposing batters to hit 'em far and wide. He and his mates kept the runs down and if they could get one or two for him he was satisfied.

White Sox and Giants Will Play in Mexico

The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox will play a six-game exhibition series in Mexico next March, Secretary Jim Tierney of the Giants announces.

Manager John J. McGraw will visit Mexico to complete the arrangements before sailing to Cuba for his winter vacation. One of the games will be played in the national stadium at Mexico City before the Mexican President and his cabinet.

Both the Giants and White Sox will train at San Antonio, Texas.

Fake Baseball Pool

Investigation of a fake baseball pool is under way in Syracuse and Albany, N. Y. The holder of a ticket purported to carry the winning number for total runs pool, complained to the district attorney at Syracuse that he had been unable to collect. He said that he was informed the money had been paid to another party who held a ticket with a lower number than his. The man to whom the money was reported paid could not be located. The pool was on the world series.

Collett Plays Golf

The dates for the cycle of women's championship golf tournaments to be played during the winter season on the Florida East Coast have been announced. Pam Beach again will stage the opener of the "Big Three" competitions for the championship of Florida, which will start on the rolling Country club course on February 17.

Glenna Collett, present champion, is expected to be one of the participants.

Shorter exhibition game programs are planned for several major league teams next spring.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR SOUTH GAME

Loyolas Play for Christmas Toy Fund at New Orleans.

Arrangements have been completed for a second football game to be played between the Loyola universities of Chicago and New Orleans.

The season's second clash between these two schools will take place at New Orleans on December 22, the receipts going to that city's Christmas toy fund. The first contest, played Armistice day, resulted in a 6 to 6 tie in a game that was played in the mud and rain.

Loyola of New Orleans is one of the two teams which Coach Dan Lamont's eleven was unable to defeat, the other being Duquesne at Pittsburgh, which won a 7 to 6 victory. Optimism reigned on the North side campus when the game was assured, for Coach Lamont's crew believes it can win the next contest.

With its second petition for reinstatement into the good graces of the Western conference ready for presentation to the faculty committee on athletics, the University of Iowa may find the committee unprepared for action.

Prof. James Paige of Minnesota, appointed last June to head a special committee to investigate not only the Iowa case but athletic conditions in other Big Ten schools, said his group, which included Prof. Thomas E. French of Ohio State university and the late Prof. George Goodenough of the University of Illinois, has not met and would not have a report ready when the faculty committee meets in Chicago.

Johnny Layton soon will appear on the turf. Richard S. Morris, noted Chicago turfman, has just named one of his colts after Johnny Layton, holder of the world's three-cushion billiard championship.

The American Athletic union has 25 district associations throughout the United States. The Metropolitan District association embracing New York city and vicinity is the largest with 206 member clubs.

The Chicago Cubs, after an advance sale of almost $2,000,000, most of which was returned, made a net profit on the recent world series of just $33,000.

And there are several players on the team who make that much.

But the fact that the league gives annually a present of $25,000 to its world series entry the net profits would have been a measly $8,000.

The club went to the expense of building an accomodation bleacher in the street. This structure cost $33,000. In return the club salvaged it for $1,800, which meant a clear loss of $31,200.

Baseball is branching out. Don Watson, sports editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, arrived in Chicago with some interesting facts about the spread of it to the far Pacific.

"We have," he says, "eight baseball leagues in operation in Honolulu. Bill Peet got an immense cup from Ban Johnson as chief prize for the leading league, but, do not know, if we get a baseball autographed by a couple of major league stars the boys will battle all season for it."

Basketball practice at Michigan began with the issuance of the first call for candidates by Coach George Veenker, and prospects of repeating last year's title snatching performance seem slim.

Capt. Ernie McCoy and Danny Rost, regular guards of the 1928 champions, have graduated, and Coach Veenker has practically no guard material coming up from last year's freshman. Close guarding and almost impregnable defense made Michigan champion last season, and without them the prospects are far from good.

Yale's football schedule for next year has been announced by the athletic association. It lists nine games, one more than contained on the cards since 1922.

Alfred university is the only new opponent, although the University of Maine will return to open the season after a lapse of several years. Alfred has taken the date which had been filled for several years by the University of Maryland, the week before the Maryland game. Maryland has been moved to the second game. Yale's only game away from home will be played at Princeton. The schedule:

September 27—University of Maine.
October 4—Maryland.
October 11—Georgia.
October 18—Brown.
October 25—Army.
November 1—Dartmouth.
November 8—Alfred.
November 15—Princeton at Princeton.
November 22—Harvard.

John Murrel, Army fullback, has an impressive record at West Point in addition to his work on the football team. He entered the Military academy after playing one year on the Minnesota varsity. As a plebe he played basketball and football. He has won his major "A" in football for the past three years and in track for two years. He also has made a name for himself as a pistol sharpshooter, a rifle marksman, and is a qualified machine gunner.

Soccer is at last coming into its own at Williams college, the size of the squads taking up the old English sport having increased steadily during the past few years. Additional interest has undoubtedly resulted from the stronger teams which have represented the Purple in recent years.

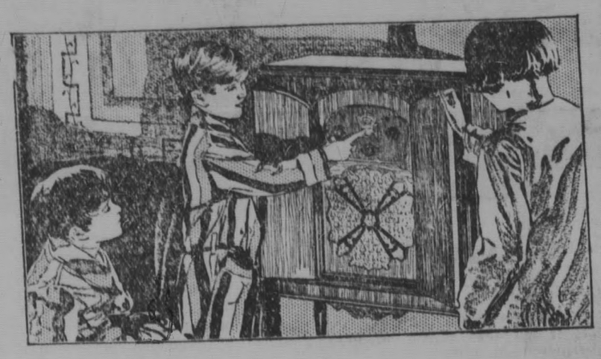

At present Williams is undefeated at soccer for two years, having passed through the most successful season in its history a year ago, when five games were won and two tied, while the two games played this fall resulted in victories.

Freddie Sington, Alabama guard and tackle, has made the scholastic honor roll every semester he has been in college.

SCHOOLGIRLS NEED HEALTH

Daughter of Mrs. Catherine Lamuth, Box 72, Mohawk, Michigan

"After my daughter grew into womanhood she began to feel rundown and weak and a friend asked me to get her your medicine. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine. Her nerves are better, her appetite is good, she is in good spirits and able to work every day. We recommend the Vegetable Compound to other girls and to their mothers."—Mrs. Catherine Lamuth.

Daughter of Mrs. Eva Wood Howe, 1006 South H. Street, Danville, Ill.

"I praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for my fourteen-year-old daughter as well as for me. It has helped her growth and her nerves and she has a good appetite now and sleeps well. She has gone to school every day since beginning the medicine. I will continue to give it to her at regular intervals and will recommend it to other mothers who have daughters with similar troubles."—Mrs. Eva Wood Howe.

Sequoia Wins, Loses With J. C.

By Ray Dixon

Displaying an improved brand of basketball, the Sequoia high 130's basketball team came from ehind a 5 point first quarter lead to down the Menlo Junior College second string by a 20 to 18 score, while the Cherokee varsity were smothered under a 24 to 16 blanket when they took on the first string of the Jaysee quintet Wednesday at the Sequoia gym.

In the Thirties tangle the College seconds took a 5 digit lead but relinquished it after the locals started functioning. At half time theMenlo team still led 10 to 9. During the third and fourth quarters the Purples managed to keep the heavy end of the scoring column by not more than 2 points. "Ike" Britschgi, Sequoia forward, had a good day when he looped 13 points to take high point honors.

Tom McCarthy, regular Sequoia center, has been absent from school several days so Dud Dillard tried the center post. Jim Flynn showed well when he replaced Jack Morgan, who has not yet found the old time form.

"The Virginian" Is Big Treat In Store for Sequoia Patrons

Audiences at the Sequoia Theatrethe same name which brought Owen Wister quick fame in the 80's, and will have the opportunity Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week to learn whether preview critics were correct when they said that "The Virginian" is "The Covered Wagon" of all talking pictures. The Owen Wister classic of pioneer days on the Western cattle ranges has all the ear-marks of an epic film. The manner in which it was acclaimed by previewers indictes that it will go high on the list or really greats.

The film, based on the novel by which has since been termed the greatest American romance, enjoys the distinction of being the first all-outdoor play to be recorded on the audible films.
